The Blood Covenant

20. Beneath His Feet

The closing chapter of the book. It presents Christ's exaltation over all powers as the believer's own victory, since we are His body. Redemption is finished and freely ours—received by faith and thanksgiving, not by struggle or begging.

Key takeaways

- Christ did His redemptive work for us, not Himself; everything under His feet is under ours because we are His body.
- Righteousness, healing, and every need are already given—you take them by faith and thanks, not by groaning, fasting, or 'holding on.'
- Begging and agonizing to get an answer is unbelief; it dishonors the Father when victory is already won.
